'CYCLIST SKIDS UNDER TRUCK, HURT SERIOUSLY'

Possible Fractured Skull, Broken Leg Is Suffered By North Wales Man

A young motorcyclist was injured seriously yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock when his cycle skidded from under him and slid beneath the back of a truck at High street and Moser road.

William H. Groman, 25, North Wales, was admitted to Memorial hospital, suffering from a possible fractured skull and broken lower right leg, as well as contusions and lacerations of the head.

The driver of a small Franklin Junk company truck, Sol Weintraub, 1429 Cherry lane, company owner, said that all he knew was he was driving west on High street, in the curb lane, he slowed to make a right turn into Bill Lamoreaux's Atlantic Service station and there was a loud crash.

Groman was unconscious when Motor Patrolman Stanley J. Bowery, who investigated, went to the hospital.

Bowery's investigation showed that Groman's motorcycle apparently had been following close behind the truck and that Groman had tried to swerve toward the center of the highway when the truck turned.

The cycle skidded for 25 feet or more on its left side, the right side of the cycle denting the license plate and spare tire rack underneath the rear of the truck.

THE CYCLE left a skid mark and a long dip in the highway. There was a large spot of blood near the center of the highway.

Walter Fink, Philadelphia, a salesman for Richie Motors, High street and Moser road, was driving from the service station when he heard the crash.

Fink rushed onto the highway, pulled the cycle free from Groman and waved away approaching traffic.

Police and Good Wills were called from the service station. Groman was taken to the hospital in an ambulance driven by Josiah Poley.

Damage to the truck was confined to the license and tire rack. The cycle had a dented front fender and smashed headlight, and there were scrapes along the right side, indicating it had shot under the rear corner of the truck.

A TRACTOR-trailer truck and a car were damaged extensively yesterday afternoon in a collision on Route 663 above Hickory Park.

According to State police of the Collegeville sub-station, the trailer truck, driven by William C. Ziegler, Telford RD 2, was making a left turn onto Little road when it was hit on the left side by a car driven by William H. Dietz Jr., Quakertown.

Ziegler said he had slowed his truck and signaled for the car to stop.

Plunging temperatures and a thick frost that blanketed the Pottstown area early yesterday gave life to the fantasy that Fall is really here.

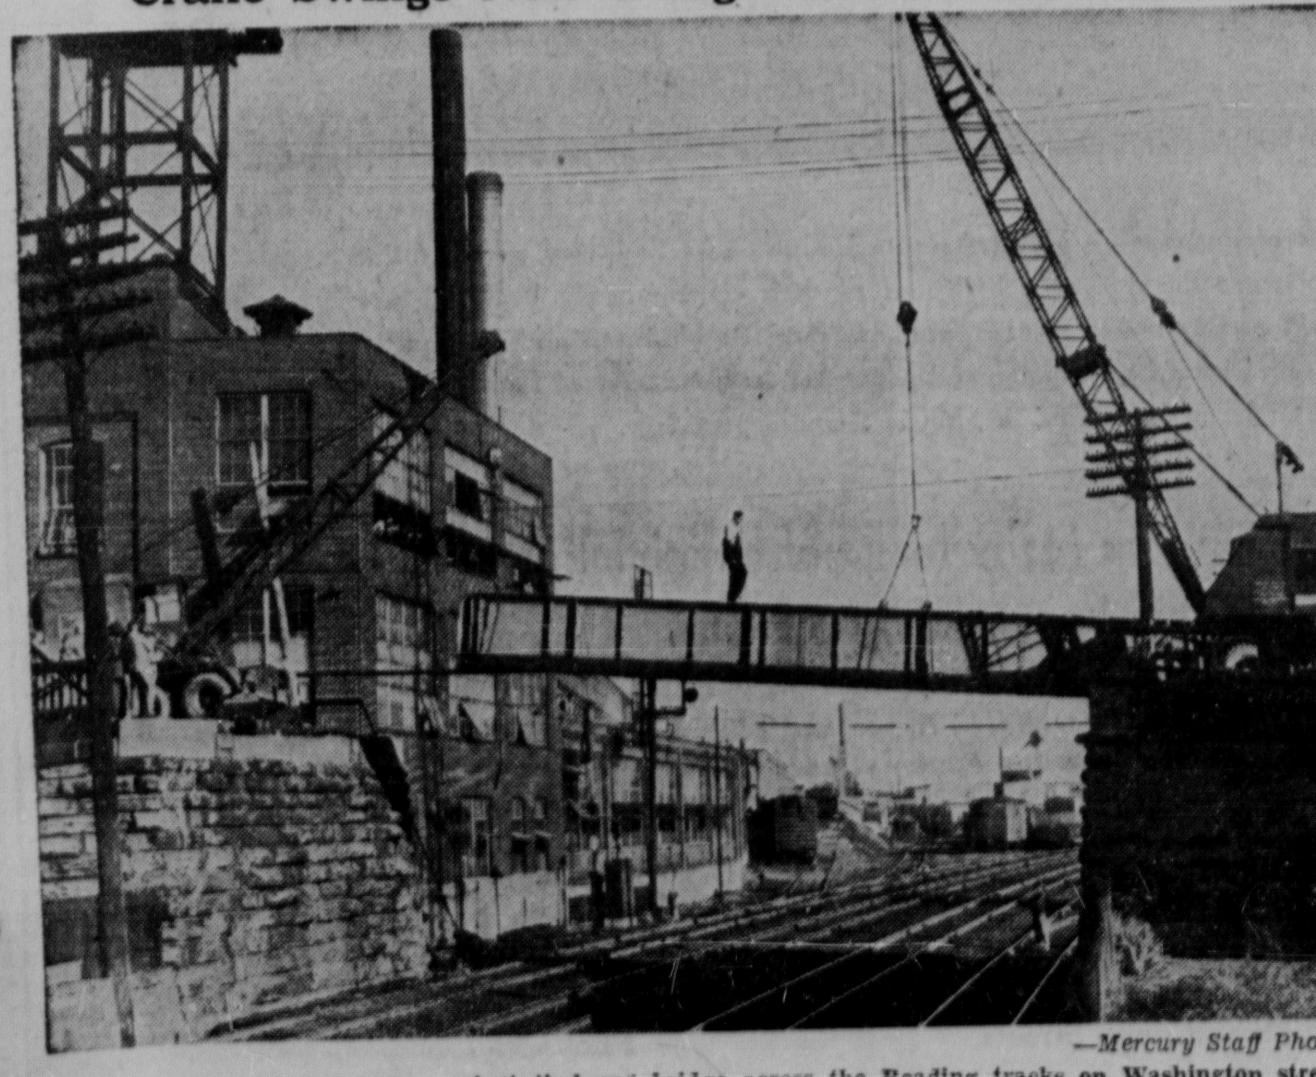

The weatherman, it appeared, hadn't forgotten to adjust his thermostat to meet the season. He just got the idea to regulate it on the spur of the moment.

And as a result, area residents had a quick peek at Winter as they tossed another log in the cellar furnace after shivering in amazement at their open bedroom windows.

His body was discovered at 10:45 o'clock by Robert V. Stong, 563 Lincoln avenue, deputy game protector, who discovered the body of Paul H. Endy, 526½ Walnut street (the white-shirted figure slumped in the back of the truck). Stong found the truck filled with carbon monoxide fumes along a lonely road in Lower Pottsgrove.

Crane Swings New Bridge Girder Into Place

On with the new! With the ancient timbered bridge across the Reading tracks on Washington street having been demolished, one of the two 11-ton side girders is tugged into place by a truck crane of the Mayer Peacock construction company. The bridge is expected to be completed in three weeks.

Fire Company Board to Meet On Site Protest

A meeting of the board of directors of the North End Fire company will be held "within the week" presumably to discuss the opposition voiced by North End residents to a proposed firehouse at Evans and Prospect streets.

Precisely what will be discussed by the directors was not disclosed.

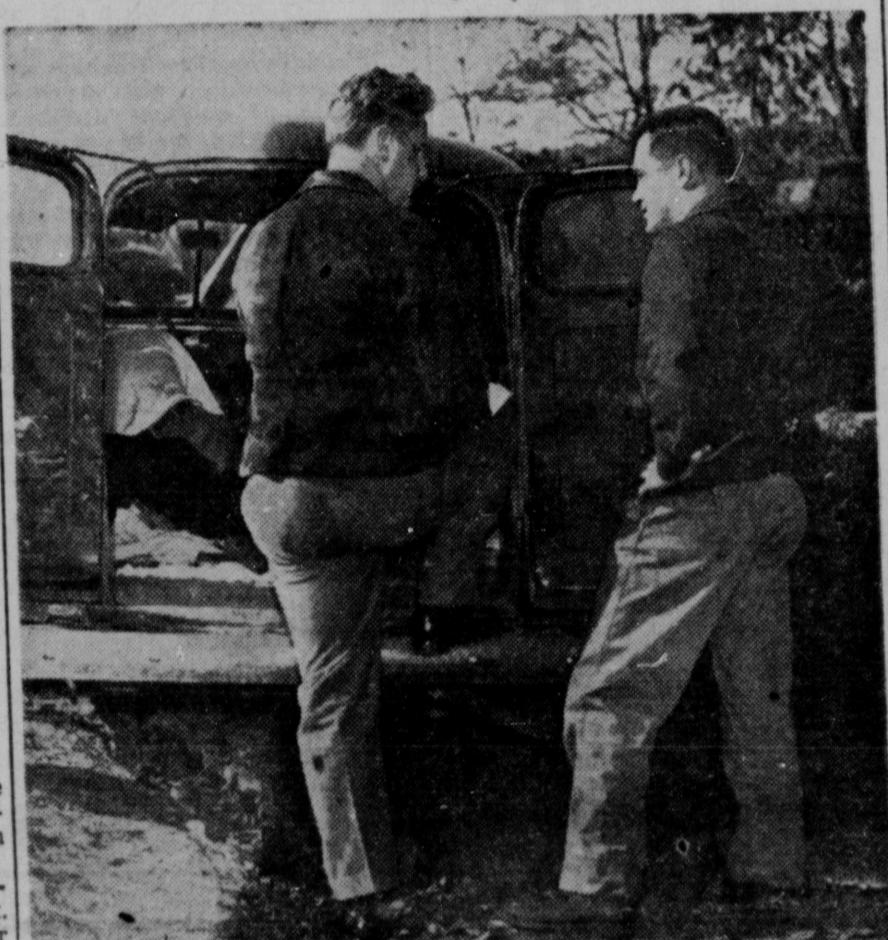

But John B. Hartenstein Jr., the company's president, said last night that following the session we might have some rebuttal to make."

He was referring to the opposition openly voiced by many homeowners in the neighborhood which is classified as strictly residential.

THE COMPANY'S president made his assertion when queried on whether there might be other sites in prospect if a proposed hearing with the zoning board of adjustment should react unfavorably to

Sliding Mercury Coats Landscape With Heavy Frost

Paul H. Endy, 38, of 526½ Walnut street, who had been the owner of a prosperous restaurant in Spring City for more than five years, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in his small truck yesterday morning on a lonely road in Lower Pottsgrove township.

His family said he had been on the verge of a nervous collapse for several weeks and had threatened suicide frequently.

His body was discovered at 10:45 o'clock by Robert V. Stong, 563 Lincoln avenue, deputy game protector, who recently became a deputy game protector. Stong was on general patrol as a protector when he saw the truck parked off Porter's road, about a half mile south of Route 422, just east of the borough line.

Stong said the truck had been

Strikers Picket Vaughan Plant Here

Officials Walked Out On Talks, Union Says

Striking employees of the Vaughan Knitting company will stay out "until a satisfactory settlement is reached," it was announced yesterday by Morris Riger, assistant regional director, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

Two hundred workers began their walkout yesterday morning after contract negotiations broke down over the wage issue. They threw up a picket line at the plant entrance at High and Manatawny streets early yesterday morning.

The company had given a 10 percent increase while the plant was being organized in August and September. Union negotiators had asked an additional 15 percent boost. At the last meeting, on Wednesday afternoon, the company did not offer to meet this demand, union sources said.

Both Andrew E. Vaughan Jr., president and Nelson M. Vaughan, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the firm, still were out of town last night and not available for comment.

Members of their families said they did not know when they would return.

RIGER DECLARED, "At a critical point in the negotiations for a union contract, the Vaughans disappeared."

"The State director of the TWUA, Sol Stetin, was present waiting to make an effort to conclude negotiations on an amicable basis. The only person present for management was Joseph Brandschelm, a newly-hired company labor relations man, who had been left with no authority to negotiate further."

"This action of the company," Riger continued, "indicates a high degree of irresponsibility in collective bargaining. The workers are thoroughly justified in this action and will stay out until a satisfactory settlement is reached."

Contract negotiations at the Vaughan plant, started soon after the workers voted 2-1 on Sept. 12 to join the union, had resulted in agreement on issues other than wages.

Management agreed to pay for a sickness-medical-surgical plan; a night shift differential; up to two weeks' vacation; six paid holidays; a union shop; a seniority plan; and other concessions.

But the workers authorized their plant committee and the union to take whatever steps they considered necessary to obtain the wage increase, including a work stoppage.

Management agreed to pay for a sickness-medical-surgical plan; a night shift differential; up to two weeks' vacation; six paid holidays; a union shop; a seniority plan; and other concessions.

After delaying for three-quarters of an hour, the hatless, youthful-looking Dilworth, who has been campaigning steadily for 14 weeks and had made several talks yesterday, hopped up on a truck owned by Charles Schwoyer, 776 Queen street, and spoke without benefit of amplification.

His audience of Friday night shoppers, theater-goers, party workers, and candidates, was fluid, but approximated 100 persons most of the time.

The Philadelphia city treasurer was handicapped by the breakdown of the equipment in one sound truck and by the non-appearance of a second truck.

After delaying for three-quarters of an hour, the hatless, youthful-looking Dilworth, who has been campaigning steadily for 14 weeks and had made several talks yesterday, hopped up on a truck owned by Charles Schwoyer, 776 Queen street, and spoke without benefit of amplification.

IN SPITE OF the competition of heavy High street traffic, a Salvation Army band concert half a block away—it began by coincidence just as the speaker began—and pedestrian noise, Dilworth could be heard clearly.

The candidate for governor declared, "My opponent has reached a state of complete desperation."

Without mentioning the name of Republican John Fine, Dilworth said Fine had falsely accused him of failing to support the State soldiers' bonus and of acting in his legal capacity against the United Mine Workers.

He must have known that

Large Chinese Red Force Hinted Battling Allied Drive

SEOUL, Saturday, Oct. 28 (AP) — American and Allied troops hacked out short gains through surprising Red resistance Friday, while South Koreans pulled back at one point in the drive to occupy Korea to its snow-covered borders.

South Korean sources said flatly that Chinese Communist troops, estimated variously from 30,000 to 60,000, had bolstered the Korean Red lines as United Nations forces slogged closer to the Manchurian border.

A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman in Seoul said the South Korean (ROK) First division had beaten off an attack by a Communist force composed of "Chinese and North Korean elements" 50 miles south of the border near Unsan.

Whether the Chinese had entered the fight in organized fashion was still to be determined.

At least some Chinese were fighting against the Allied advance. An American adviser with the South Korean First division said 62 dead Chinese were counted on a battlefield near Unsan in Northwestern Korea Friday. He did not say how they were identified as Chinese.

The answer to the presence of Chinese in the Communist ranks might be found in the statement of a Chinese soldier captured Thursday near Unsan.

Commie Guns Down 2 Planes; Pilot Dies

WONSAN AIRFIELD, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP) — Two American Marine fighter pilots were shot down by North Korean ground fire today.

One was killed and the other was rescued by helicopter from a snow-covered field five miles behind Red Korean lines.

The rescued flier is Capt. Frank K. Reilly Jr., of Baytown, Texas, whose wife lives in Atlanta, Ga.

The rescue pilot is Capt. W. D. Blatt of Wormleysburg, Pa.

"You're the prettiest sight I've seen in a long time," said Reilly to Blatt as he boarded the helicopter.

Reilly had landed his crippled Corsair in a reservoir at Haejuing, 41 miles south of the Manchurian border.

He swam and waded to shore and hid for more than two hours while four other Marine fighter pilots flew circles around him until the helicopter arrived.

Reilly's wet shoes and clothing froze while he awaited rescue.

HE WAS ARMED with a .38 caliber pistol but didn't have to use it. His fighter plane cover effectively protected him from a North Korean outpost only half a mile away.

Two of the circling Corsair pilots took off their fleece-lined flight jackets and tossed them down to Reilly, so he wouldn't freeze.

When Blatt returned to his Won-san base with Reilly, the helicopter had been in the air three hours and 55 minutes.

Blatt's squadron commander, Maj. Victor Gottschalk of Pontiac, Mich., said this "probably was the longest rescue flight by a helicopter in the Korean war."

It was Blatt's second rescue in four days and his sixth of the war.

The pilot who was killed was an enlisted man. His name was not announced, pending notification of next of kin.

Reilly said he and the other pilot were hit when they dived to attack a Red Korean column of four Soviet-made jeeps, five trucks and a long line of ox carts.

Indiana Gov. Seeks Solution To Jailed Trucker Problem

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27 (AP) — The United States is backing an eight-power resolution which would permit U.N. members to send back to Madrid their top ambassadors and ministers and would open the way for Generalissimo Franco to join specialized agencies of the U.N.

The resolution has the effect of revoking an assembly resolution of 1946 on ambassadors and specialized agencies but it does not touch another assembly resolution, approved at the first U.N. meeting in London in 1946, barring Franco Spain from U.N. membership.

Bolivia, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, the Philippines and Peru introduced the resolution and backed it strongly in opening debate today.

CIO Schedules Western Electric Work Stoppage

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP) — The CIO-Communications Workers of America tonight called a strike of Western Electric employees in 43 states and every large city across the nation at 6 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 9.

About 16,685 workers will be involved, but pickets will be thrown around telephone exchanges in every sizeable town, President Joseph A. Beirne said in a statement.

The parent CWA union, representing 300,000 workers in the Bell Telephone system, will not cross picket lines, Beirne said.

The strike will directly involve 10,000 workers in the Western Electric installation department in all states except Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island; 6000 distributing house employees in 28 major cities scattered throughout the nation; and 680 manufacturing workers in Haverhill, Mass.

Dutch Youth to Speak At Salvation Army

A 21-year-old Dutch youth, Cornelius Versluis, of The Hague, The Netherlands, who survived five days of Hitler's blitzkrieg, will speak at all Salvation Army services tomorrow. Capt. Meral Cox, of the Pottstown citadel, announced last night.

Versluis will be accompanied by Major Lyle Rader, Philadelphia, who is in charge of the Young People's work in this area. He will speak at the citadel at 9:45 a.m. for the Sunday school; 10:45 a.m. for the Holliness meeting; 6:15 p.m. for the Young People's meeting, and at 7:30 o'clock for the evening service.

He also will take part in the meetings at Hilldale at 1:30 p.m., at Penn Village at 3 p.m., and the outdoor meeting at 7 p.m.

The youth is an exchange student at Westminster Theological seminary. He plans to return to the Salvation Army college in The Netherlands following his graduation, to study to become a Salvation Army officer.

ENDY DEATH —

was sitting against the left side of the back of the truck, just behind the driver's seat. His head had slumped against the back of the seat.

Police discovered a suicide note of a personal nature in the truck.

Endy is married and the father of two children. He has had domestic difficulties in recent years.

BOROUGH POLICE, after receiving Stong's call, sent Motor Patrolman Earl J. Rhoads and Stanley J. Borowy to the scene. They notified Collegeville State police, Montgomery County coroner W. J. Rushong and asked for a physician.

Endy was pronounced dead by Dr. Joseph J. Mullin, who arrived with Police Chief James A. Laughead. The investigation was turned over to State police.

The coroner released the body to a funeral home at 112 North Washington street, indicating he would issue a certificate of death by suicide.

Endy was born in the Oley section but had spent most of his life in Pottstown. Until the Summer of 1949, he owned and operated the East Bridge Street cafe, a restaurant between the bridges over the canal and the Schuylkill in Spring City.

Twin-Borough businessmen said that the restaurant did a thriving business until its last year or so and that Endy was known for his pleasant, sociable disposition as proprietor.

SINCE HE SOLD the business, the restaurant has changed hands several times. It now is owned by Charles Bauer, Phoenixville, and is called the Bridge Street luncheonette.

Endy had been living for the past five years at the Walnut street address, at the home of George Ritter. Previously he had been living in Reading for several years.

Funeral services will be held privately from his home Wednesday. The Rev. John L. Smoker, pastor of Baltzell Evangelical United Brethren church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Hill Church cemetery.

TIME HAS WROUGHT CHANGES

No. 158 Came Up for Trio 10 Years Ago

Ten years ago tomorrow, the late Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, reached into a famous old fishbowl for blue capsule and three Pottstown area residents saw their number come up.

It was the No. 158 which started the first peacetime draft in the history of the United States.

Holders of the serial numbers in the Pottstown area were the late Silverius T. Ragnone, 507 West Vine street, Stowe; Woodrow A. Merkel, Pennsburg RD 1, and Walter C. Pennypacker, 231 Yost avenue, Spring City.

Today, only Pennypacker lives near Pottstown. He still resides in his same Spring City home.

THIRTY-TWO years old and the father of two children when his number was chosen, Pennypacker was exempted from service during the war.

"I was in the garage business at the time," Pennypacker recalled. "The government told me to get into defense work, but after I had given up my garage, garages were declared essential."

Pennypacker left his business in November, 1942, and worked for the Jacobs Aircraft Engine company throughout the war. He attempted to enlist in the U.S. Navy in 1943, but recruiting officials asked him to return to his job.

After the war, he was employed by the Pottstown Manufacturing company and has remained at that job since.

RAGNONE, WHO was supporting a widowed mother, was exempted from service until November, 1942, when he was inducted into the town union leader and candidate for assemblyman from the Third district, called for election of legislators who would raise the State's standards in unemployment compensation and relief.

Asking for a united effort, Marquie said, "Let's all be politicians. We're all political workers in a good cause."

Sidney Schulman, another candidate for assemblyman from this district, also spoke briefly.

These candidates all had been praised by Dilworth as "the finest candidates the county has offered, and just the kind of people labor is interested in seeing in government."

Dilworth's talk followed a dinner in the Dutch grill, attended by 40 party workers and candidates.

The gubernatorial candidate came to Pottstown from Pennsburg. He left here for further talks in Jenkintown and Elkins Park.

DURING HIS tour of heavily-Republican Montgomery county, Dilworth appealed for the support of independent voters with talks also in Hatfield, Souderton and Lansdale.

At Souderton, Dilworth said, "The corrupt big city machine politicians who have been running Philadelphia are now trying to move in and take over Harrisburg. I don't think the independent men and women of this great State are going to let them do it."

During his tour, Dilworth charged the State administration with adding 1000 employees since the primary election, and said the payroll now stands "at the all-time high of $3,000."

He appealed, "When we have bad government, it is our own fault because of our own indifference. We want to bring a little practical idealism into the State government—the kind that gets things done."

We are going to give this State really progressive government in every department," he promised.

Leon C. MacMullen, candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, introduced other candidates, who also spoke from the impromptu platform.

Mrs. Lois Forer, seeking the State Senate seat, praised Pottstown workers for their active campaign and told of the Democratic activities in the Republican lower end of the county.

Mrs. Forer, the only woman candidate in the county, declared, "There isn't a corner in all of Montgomery county where people haven't told us, 'More power to you,' and 'We're with you.'"

Armistice Day Has Lost Full Meaning, 'Jimmy' Says

V-J Day More Important

To the Editor: There are only a few weeks until Armistice Day and the veterans organization, I read, are going ahead with plans to observe the day when the fighting stopped in World War I.

This is just about as sensible as observing the day when the oil lamp was invented, after having electric lights these many years.

We have to wait for the professional promoters to get busy and proclaim V-J Day as the one on which we bow our heads and unfurl the flags in thanks for the end of the greatest of all wars?

Where are the World War II veterans? Where are the families of those who gave up sons and fathers in the last war?

Pottstown veterans could show the way. Or do they have to wait for the high sign from their national headquarters?

Ignorance Not Fault of Police

To the Editor: May I take issue with School Child's Friend ("School Bus Law Ignored," Readers Say, Oct. 23) in his rather pointless letter?

That the school bus law is being ignored is no secret. But I feel that the provisions of it should be made more generally known.

It is altogether stupid to blame the State police for ignorance of the law on the part of drivers or to blame them for failing to arrest every violator. There aren't enough State police in the entire

WASHINGTON Acheson Delays Test Of Calif. U. N. Decision

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—Solicitor General Nathan Perlman has persuaded Secretary Dean Acheson to postpone any challenge of a California court's decision that certain civil rights provisions of the United Nations Charter supersede and virtually nullify state and national laws affecting the lives and properties of minority groups living in this country. This will be the key issue when the next Senate resumes debate on "ratification of the so-called Genocide Treaty and other international agreements.

When Luther made his famous stand at Worms for the rights of the individual, not only liberty of conscience, but of human reason, not only the liberty of organized society, but personal liberty was on trial.

What he contended for was the right of a man, made in the image of God, to form and to hold his own opinions, the divine prerogative of freedom of mind, thought and soul.

America, then, in her separation of Church and State, and in her government by all the people—and for all the people—a true democracy—has profited far more largely by Luther than any other modern nation. We are the heirs of his battles and victories; we share in the liberties he achieved.

Luther, however, belongs to no one nation or to no one communion. Calvin signed the Augsburg Confession and called Luther the most distinguished teacher of God since the Apostles, so that the Presbyterians have a part in him.

The Church of England almost became Lutheran. Its Thirty-Nine Articles and many of the liturgical forms of the Book of Common Prayer show Luther's influence.

Wesley openly ascribed his conversion to Luther's wonderfully spiritual preface to the Book of Romans, so that the Methodist Church feels his influence in her foundation. As Paul converted Luther, so Luther converted Wesley.

Luther was definitely a spiritual hero. He wielded no sword but the weapon of truth. He bore no sceptre but the authority of the Word of God. He had for his only ideal, pure religion; his only aim, the good of men and the everlasting welfare of the soul. And thus because he was a warrior, a prince, a hero, of the realm of the spirit, his fame is set upon a hill that cannot be hid.

On My Girl Scout Honor
POTTSTOWN'S Girl Scouts observe a birthday next week, the 30th anniversary of the founding of girl scouting. The observances come during the week which marks the birthday (October 31) of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of girl scouting in America.

Pottstown's girl scouts are learning to be the community's leaders of the future by adhering to the oath: "On my honor, I will try (1) to do my duty to God and country; (2) To help other people at all times, and (3) to obey the girl scout laws."

In front of the Girl Scout promise are the three words "On my honor".

Having honor means having a sense of what is right, just, and true and showing it in daily actions. It means that a girl can be trusted to do her best.

"I will try", a girl scout's sincerest effort to live up to the promise.

"To do my duty to God and my country" A girl's duty to God is to honor God in the finest way she knows, by the things she says, thinks, and does. Every girl should be a faithful member of her own religious group.

Duty to one's country means doing everything possible to make our country a place where all people may live and work in safety and freedom and to respect the laws and traditions.

"To help other people at all times"—a girl scout learns to be "the prepared" to help other people at all times by being friendly, understanding, kind, thoughtful and tolerant.

"To obey the girl scout laws"—These laws are a code of honor by which a girl scout measures her conduct. She uses this code as a daily reminder of the ways in which she would like to act in order to be useful and respected in the community.

PUNKIN CORNERS,
Editor, The Mercury,
October 27.

Wal, I see by the papers where a survey revealed that married men were "more outspoken" than bachelors. But not, I'll wager, around the house!

Yep, and television is wonderful with its cowboys, weary after a long, hard day punching cattle, returning at dusk for a beautiful dinner of breakfast food!

And say: The weather prophet has a big advantage over the politician. If he doesn't make good on his promises the people can't vote him out of office. Hopin' you air the same.

'NOT FORGETTING YOU!'

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Signs of the Times... End of the Bridge...

★ COMING NEXT WEEK—With a commercial enterprise given permission by Burgess William A. Griffith of Pottstown, to fly an advertising banner over Hanover street at High street, Pottstown may expect High street blurs like this: "Fresh Fish, 20c a pound. Bring your own dishpan" . . . "Red Flannels Cheap Today at Cheap John's" . . . "Knockstiff Liquor on Sale at Bargain Prices" . . . "Bingo Tonight and Every Night" . . . "Long Shot Petes Tip: Girdle in the Fifth Won't Give Way in the Stretch" . . . Speaking of signs, the borough of Pottstown should remove that misleading sign at Hanover and King streets that points east to a non-existent parking lot.

SATURDAY SNICKER—"May I have a glass of water, please?"

That was all a movie starlet heard from her patients on her first night as an aide in a Hollywood hospital, reports Pageant. Anxious to make an impression on this first venture into volunteer work, she dispensed the water with pretty smiles.

Then, after "lights out," when her patients were all asleep, she quietly made the rounds of her ward again in the dark, collecting the used water glasses.

As she tiptoed from the dark ward into the brightly lighted halls, she looked down at the tray full of glasses and gaped. In each one reposed a shiny set of false teeth—and she had no idea whose was whose!

★ CASKETS MARK END—While he was looking over the wire situation at the new Washington street bridge across the Reading company tracks, Walter Foley, 907 North Charlotte street, branch superintendent of Philadelphia Electric company, was reminded of the sad fate of the old Franklin street bridge across the tracks some 30 years ago. Foley was driving a half block or so behind a Boyertown Burial Casket company truck, which was going south on Franklin street toward the Pennsylvania station, where it was to deliver its load of new caskets. The truck almost reached the south end of the bridge, when the bridge collapsed. The trailer dropped toward the tracks, spilling most of the caskets onto them. The truck clung precariously to the end of the bridge. Foley had to detour around the bridge. The collapse of the wooden structure led to the building of the present Franklin street bridge.

MARS HILL MEMO—The Mars Hill Memorial company, of Mars Hill, Maine, a community that boasts of being "the hub of Aroostook," ran a wonderful ad in a recent issue of the Mars Hill View. The ad was headlined: "Sing While You Drive!", and the copy went like this:

"You Dare-Devil drivers on our highways and through our streets, sing these hymns as you press the accelerator to the floor:

"At 45 miles per hour sing 'It Is Good For Us, Lord, To Be Here.'

"At 55 miles, sing: 'Heaven Is My Home.'

"At 65 miles sing: 'Becky Sharp,' 'Les Misérables,' 'Hunchback of Notre Dame,' etc. His most recent pictures are 'The Cross of Lorraine,' 'The Keys of the Kingdom,' 'The Picture of Dorian Gray,' 'Wing and a Prayer,' 'Sentimental Journey,' 'Typhoon.' Who is he?

Reformation Service Is Set for Tomorrow

Members of seven Lutheran churches of Pottstown and vicinity will unite tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in Emmanuel Lutheran church in observance of the 433rd anniversary of the Reformation.

More than 7600 baptized men, women and children are expected to attend the service, which follows a custom established years ago by the seven congregations.

Preceding the service there will be a religious procession of more than 250 vested clergy, acolytes, and choir members carrying lighted candles. The procession will form at Emmanuel church and will march east on Walnut street to Penn, south on Penn to High, west on High to Hanover, and north on Hanover to the church.

Leading the procession will be a brass choir under the direction of William Lamb Jr.

SPEAKERS WILL be a Lutheran Clergyman, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Arthur Carl Piepkorn, who until recently was commandant of the Army and Air Force Chaplain school at Carlisle barracks.

He is president of the chaplain board at Fort George C. Meade, Md. He served in World War II and saw active duty in England, France and Germany. After the close of the war he became senior chaplain, U.S. Occupational forces in Germany, and in recognition of meritorious service in Europe he was awarded the Bronze Star medal and the Army Commendation ribbon.

Also participating in the service will be the Rev. Dr. Luther A. Krouse, pastor; the Rev. Theodore L. Fischer, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Transfiguration; the Rev. Edgar S. Brown, pastor of Grace Lutheran church; the Rev. Edward S. Horn, pastor of St. James Lutheran church; the Rev. Robert M. Lamparter, pastor of St. James Lutheran church; and the Rev. Edgar M. Cooper, pastor of New Hanover Lutheran church.

Leading the choir of more than 250 voices, and presiding at the organ, will be the following organists and choir directors:

Iva A. Spacht, Mrs. J. Franklin Bechtel, T. Henry Boyer, Florence Erb, Mrs. Charles Flickinger, Mrs. Harold B. Keim, Mrs. Leonard Saylor and Dorothy R. Sutton.

The doors of the church will open at 6:30 o'clock.

ANOTHER Reformation service for members and friends of the five Reformed churches in Pottstown and Stowe, and the First Presbyterian church of Pottstown, will be held in "The Old Brick Church," Hanover and Chestnut streets, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. Howard A. Kosman, pastor of Zion's Reformed church, whose congregation now worships in the building where the Protestant churches began in

CHAPLAIN PIEPKORN

Pottstown in the year 1750. The building itself was constructed in 1796.

Eleven Protestant churches in the community can trace their ancestry to the Reformed and Lutheran congregations that worshipped in the edifice.

Assisting the Rev. Kosman will be the Rev. Paul C. Scheirer, pastor of St. John's Reformed church.

THE SERMON will be delivered by the Rev. A. Burtt Hallock Jr., pastor of First Presbyterian church. His sermon will be "The Reformation and Our Vision of God."

Girl Scout Week Will Begin Tomorrow; Troop Uniforms to Be Seen in Abundance

Beginning tomorrow, 471 Girl Scouts in this area will join their sisters all over the world in observance of National Girl Scout Week.

All the young ladies of troops, who are from 7 to 17, Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors, will wear their olive green uniforms for the full weeks of observance which ends Nov. 4.

This week has been set aside to honor the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Gordon Low, who showed the way to make young girls better women by presenting a program for the development of a healthy mind and body.

The program has been greatly augmented throughout the years until today it covers every practical thing a girl should know in the home and many she should know when socializing.

Instruction is given in homemaking which includes cooking and sewing, first aid, arts and crafts, dancing, sports and games, etc.

To keep the body in spirit with the mind there are always many outdoor activities scheduled on the yearly scout book. Camping outdoors is usually a big event, prior to which the girls are taught the highlights of pioneer camping. These include learning to utilize the fruits of mother nature in making outdoor implements for cooking and camping use.

SCOUT LIFE is filled with various activities and centers greatly around the slogan "do a good deed daily." Every scout is proud to adhere to these words and each strives to become accomplished in at least one field so that she can be of service.

To provide greater incentive for learning a skill, honors and badges are awarded. The scouts make their own badges and sew them onto their uniforms. Besides doing good deeds at home the scouts work in unison to aid the needy on various projects. The project for this year has been the making of schoolbags. These bags are filled with school supplies and sent to the friends overseas who are in need.

It's projects like these that make the scouts conscious of working together and contributing their share to a democratic way of life. Rendering service to others helps establish a sturdy foundation for the future alert citizens, aware of their responsibilities, that these folks will grow up to be.

The job of building good citizens from young people is a tremendous one and involves the voluntary services of many. Guiding the projects of troops and acting in an advisory capacity is the head group, the Girl Scout council. This group is comprised of local women such as Mrs. Adam Saylor, commissioner; Miss Dorothy Yohn, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur K. Switzer, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Guest, registrar, and 13 others who give their time on committees.

GIRL SCOUT Troops were first organized in Pottstown in January, 1943, by the first council president, Mrs. Frank S. Anderson. Now seven years later there are 26 troops. These troops are sponsored by club and church troopers who lend invaluable aid by providing meeting places, transportation, camping grounds and help leaders whenever the need arises.

Leaders also give voluntary service and provide the girls with an education and entertainment. These women who instruct various subjects put forth special effort to educate their girls by attending special classes for leaders which keep them informed on scouting.

This coming week will be busting with activity for all those concerned with scout work. The program for the week will begin tomorrow when all the scouts attend church services in their uniforms.

On Wednesday, the Brownies will be entertained from 4 to 5 o'clock in the YWCA gym with Miss Eleanor Cornmesser and Mrs. Samuel Hanna, leaders in charge.

Thursday night from 7 to 8:30 o'clock, the Senior and Intermediate Scouts will attend a puppet show at the YWCA. The leader in charge will be Miss Mildred Geist, of Troop 4.

Pictures of scout activities will be displayed around town and the girls themselves will strive more than ever to adhere to the slogan, "Do a good deed daily."

'Gas' Price War-Front Held at Trooper As Local Dealers Watch Developments

Pottstown retail gasoline dealers last night were still 18 miles from the "front" of gasoline price war that has dipped pumpside costs in Norristown as low as 20 cents a gallon.

The price battle has moved steadily out of Philadelphia and westward along Route 422. On Thursday it had gone as far as Trooper and was reported as having made no further gains last night.

Pottstown dealers, however, are watching closely for any new developments that might bring the price competition into the town.

In Norristown last night, "name" brands were selling for 22.9 cents for regular gasoline and 24.9 for premium, a price schedule which has been in effect for several days.

But reports also indicated that lesser known brands were selling at five gallons for a dollar. Sources said this price has prevailed at such dealers' for the past week.

ON THURSDAY, the "front" had extended from Norristown to Jeffersonville and had jumed quickly to Trooper.

A representative of the Cassel and Undercoffer service station in Collegeville said last night he believes that the situation may resolve itself at that point along the highway. But he was making no predictions.

In Pottstown, prices were maintained at 27 cents for regular and 29 cents for premium gasoline of major companies.

But at least one High street dealer is thinking in terms of signs to announce any sudden change of price that might lead to a "war" here.

"They tell me I can't put it up on the curb," he said, "but there's nothing to stop me from hanging it over the station property."

HOWEVER, L. M. Miller, field representative for the Petroleum Retailers' Association of Berks County, pointed out last night that gasoline station signs must comply with State legislation passed in 1931, or they are illegal.

Miller said that the 19-year-old law, never repealed, sets a standard for all signs advertising the price of gasoline at the station.

Such signs, he said, must list the cost of gasoline, the State and Federal taxes and the total price in letters and figures not less than two inches high.

Penalty for failure to comply with the law is a $25 fine and costs, he said. Charges against any service station operator who displays illegal signs can be brought by any private citizen, he added.

Miller is currently undertaking a campaign to organize Montgomery county retail gasoline men into a mutual association to combat repeated unfair trade practices.

The association, which would be affiliated with the Pennsylvania Petroleum Retailers' Association, also would seek to outlaw misleading signs and would attempt to obtain a rebate of two percent on taxes to offset shrinkage and evaporation.

The State organization, the field representative said, has protested by resolution alleged monopolistic practices of major oil companies which 50 county associations in the Commonwealth maintain have resulted in the current sweeping price war.

Steel Work Starts On Street Bridge

Steel work on the new Washington street bridge across the Reading tracks began Thursday, with two big truck cranes snaking an 11-ton girder across the high gap.

William Pollock, a partner in the Mayer Pollock construction firm that is laying the steel, said that approximately 50 tons will be used in the bridge.

The Reading company furnished the used, 11-ton beams that will form the sides of the bridge. Mayer Pollock shaped the company's new steelwork at its shops to fit the bridge.

Steel work on the new Washington street bridge across the Reading tracks reached the halfway point yesterday, as two big truck cranes had snaked across two 11-ton side girders and four cross beams.

The crane operators were hampered by the large number of telephone and electric lines and the gas pipe near the bridge site. The crane on the south bank took the big girder halfway across. The other crane pulled it the rest of the way.

After the rest of the steel is laid in the next three days, Reading company workers will lay the decking, or floor of the bridge, which is expected to be completed within three weeks.

Sidney Pollock, another partner in the firm, is directing the steel work.
